Other Questions You May Have

Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?

How will you choose investments to recommend to me?

What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?

Our fees vary depending on the services you receive. Additionally, the amount of assets in your account affects our advisory fee; the more assets you have in your advisory account, the more you will pay us and thus we have an incentive to increase those assets in order to increase our fee. For hourly fee arrangements, each additional hour (or portion thereof) we spend working for you would increase the advisory fee. Our fixed fee arrangements are based on the amount of work we expect to perform for you, so material changes in that amount of work will affect the advisory fee we quote you. The asset-based fee will be prorated and paid quarterly in advance. For the initial quarter, the fee is based upon the value of the assets being managed by us at the time the account is funded by such assets. In subsequent quarters, the fee is based upon the market value of the average daily account balance of the assets being managed by us for the previous quarter. For the initial quarter, the fee is calculated on a pro rata basis, while the fees for subsequent quarters are adjusted because of the use of an average daily account balance from the previous quarter. No portion of the Wealth Management Fee will be based on capital gains or appreciation of the assets. You pay our fees even if you do not have any transactions and the advisory fee paid to us generally does not vary based on the type of investments selected.

There are additional fees such as internal fees and expenses charged by mutual funds (i.e., 12b-1 distribution fees and management fees that are assessed within the mutual fund) and exchange-traded funds, fees imposed by private placements and pooled investment vehicles, product-level fees and commission for insurance-related products, postage and handling, transfer taxes, SEC fees for sales of securities. Also, with certain investments such as variable annuities, you may have to pay fees such as "surrender charges" to sell or redeem the investment.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

You can find more information about our fees and costs under Item 5 of our Part 2A Brochure, available at Adviserinfo.sec.gov.

Other Questions You May Have

Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- Certain of our firm's advisors, in their individual capacities, are registered representatives ("RRs") of an unaffiliated broker-dealer, where they are compensated for and service brokerage products, such as 529 plans, they recommended when they were RRs of a global brokerage firm. The receipt of brokerage compensation provides an incentive to recommend securities transactions for the purpose of being compensated for product sales rather than solely based on a client's needs. The RRs do not currently recommend initial sales of new brokerage products to the firm's clients, and would only do so in the future if they believed that such recommendation were in the best interest of the client. Additionally, our advisors do not receive both advisory fees and brokerage compensation and advisory compensation on the same client assets (e.g., they do not "double dip").
- Certain of our firm's advisors are licensed to sell insurance, which creates a conflict of interest regarding compensation.
- We receive research, client referrals and other benefits from Schwab, a custodian we recommend to hold your assets. This gives us an incentive to continue to use or expand the use of Schwab's services.
- Our affiliates UPTIQ and FRS receive fees from the network institutions and certain administrative services providers in exchange for allowing them to participate in the UPTIQ credit and cash management programs or FRS programs and thereby to offer their services to our clients. We therefore have a conflict of interest when we recommend that clients use the credit and cash management services of UPTIQ or the services of FRS.

Additional information regarding conflicts of interest can be found in Items 5, 10, 11, 12, and 14 of our Part 2A Brochure, available at Adviserinfo.sec.gov.

Other Questions You May Have

How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

The financial professionals servicing your accounts are compensated through salary and/or a percentage of the advisory fees our firm receives. The factors primarily driving the salary and bonus for each financial professional include the amount of assets serviced by the professional and the revenue the firm and/or our affiliates generate from the professional's services or recommendations. This presents a conflict and incentive for the financial professional to encourage you to increase the assets in your account or recommend certain products or services offered by our affiliates. We and our affiliates refer clients to third-party service providers and are eligible to receive additional compensation for those referrals. Our financial advisors may receive commission-based compensation for the sale of securities and insurance products. We do not receive non-cash compensation.

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?
